"The Constitution as it Was"

We find nowhere more sensible articles or more uncompromising in opposition to the traitors and their Northern sympathizers than in Harper's Weekly, which in the beginning of this career was positively pro-slavery—in the last number we find the following, as our reply to the instant seizing of Northern property in slaves:

Whenever, during military operations, private property is taken, the owner is paid. There is every disposition to compel all persons that the war is for the maintenance of the Constitution and the Union as it was. Certainly it is—but what then? What is the Union as it was? It is the Union of the people living in thirty-four States under one supreme national government which by the Constitution and its amendments is empowered to enforce its authority from every citizen of the land by military force if necessary.

That is what the government is doing—this war is the effort of the government to enforce its authority. By the Constitution the President as military commander-in-chief and Congress the military power is controlled by habeas corpus when the courts are confronted by hundreds of thousands of armed men in bloody battles are fought every day, and when, instead of the government established there is war between the government and insurgents who are at no fixed times and places, it will be seen by everybody very readily how the Union as it was is restored.

When the government retakes the property of the Constitution which, by the Constitution and Laws, is subject to the rebellion and disloyal, the constitutional rights are not instantly restored. Property taken in waging war is safeguarded for individual salvation only against the taking of his life by the government except after due process of law in the regular judicial trial court. But the property is not taken without any indictment or trial whatever. Was it an unconstitutional act? Not at all. It was just as constitutional as the hanging of Gordon. For the Constitution as it is authorizes the use of military measures after due warning, as much as it guarantees individual life and liberty, and when the Union as it was is restored, every citizen who has lost his life by military necessity will enjoy all the civil guarantees for it.

And so whatever evils may fall within the scope of military necessity by the Confiscation Law passed in the House our mission is to help it at the expense of the rebels. Every citizen has a right to own property, but the grain and cattle of every rebel will be impressed and appropriated to the use of the Government wherever the army needs it. Does that interfere with the Union as it was? No it is simply an integral part of the necessary military operations to restore the Union as it was. In like manner, the slaves of every rebel who have been used against the Government are liberated. Does that interfere with the Union as it was? Not at all. It is only part of the constitutional means to restore the Union as it was.

By and by it may become clearly necessary to summon all loyal people to the defense of the Government and to that end the slaves may be freed. Will that interfere with the Union as it was? Not at all. It will be only another blow which may be constitutionally struck at the rebellion. It is true that in the Union as it was there were slaves lawfully held in many States. So there were in the District of Columbia. But when the war is over if it ends to-morrow there will be no slaves held there. Must the District slave law be re-enacted, lest otherwise we should not have the Union as it was? Is it after the American Government clearly fulfills the purposes for which it was expressly created, and every man subject to that Government enjoys the full liberty which the Declaration of Independence declares to be given him by God upon the continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the crack of the slave whip is heard no more and universal peace and prosperity bloom from justice like red and white roses from these bright trees of June, will it be the work and chaos of the nation?

No, and forever no. It will be the Union as it was in the very intent and words of the fathers. The Union as it was is meant to be, and the Omnipotent God's blessing on the children of those fathers means it shall be.

ILLINOIS CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION,
SPRINGFIELD, January 25, 1862.

DEAR SIR: I am instructed by the Committee on Military Affairs to inclose you a copy of the subjoined resolution adopted by the Constitutional Convention now in session in this city and to request you immediately to answer at an early day, in order that the Committee may report to the Convention at an early day. In responding to this inquiry I am instructed to request you to send such suggestions as your observation and experience may dictate with reference to the present and future condition of your county. I have the honor to be very respectfully

Your obedient servant,
JAMES W. SINGLETON,
Chairman of Committee on Military Affairs.

THE RESOLUTION.

Resolved, That the Committee on Military Affairs be instructed to enquire whether the officers and men of the 11th regiment of Illinois volunteers now in the field from this State have been and continue to be provided in all respects as the troops sent out from the field from other States have been and continue to be, and if the Committee find that the Illinois troops have not been thus provided for, that they be instructed to enquire further whether the neglect is justly chargeable to any person or persons holding office under this State, and to report the facts to this Convention.

THE REPLY.

PADUCAH, KY., February 10, 1862.

James H. Singleton, Esq., Chairman Committee on Military Affairs, Springfield, Ill.

DEAR SIR: Your circular dated January 25, 1862, inclosing a resolution of the Illinois Constitutional Convention came to hand today. Should I give you the information the resolution calls for I should make a report of myself as the Commissary of Subsistence, assigning your attention to that which is no part of your business, and which is also not the business of the Convention. If I am rightly informed you were elected to make a Constitution for the State of Illinois. Why much if don't you do it? Comparing the equipments of the soldiers of the several States is about as much your business as it would be my business to inquire into the sanity of the members of the Convention. Suppose the fact was your resolution seems to imply—that we are not thus well armed and equipped as the soldiers from the other States—can you as a member of that Convention be of any service to us?" But I know and you know that the resolution was offered for the purpose and with the object for which every member of the Convention should blush with shame—to make political capital.

If the Committee on Military Affairs are so very anxious to exhibit their ability in inquiring into matters I would suggest—as the resolution permits me to make suggestions—that they inquire into the history of the Mexican war in which the venerable Chairman played so conspicuous a part.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,
QUINCY McNEIL,
Major Second Illinois Cavalry.

A SECESSIONIST ACCEPTING AN AWKWARD CHALLENGE.—A few weeks since there was an exchange of prisoners at Selma, Ala. While a train had been loaded with Federal prisoners was on the way to that place it stopped at a station where a lady of fine appearance, followed by a black nurse with a basket and dusty, had spread cakes and other articles among these soldiers. As she stepped off the platform she saw Dr. Gessed Capt. Stubbs who was standing near and said to him, "Now don't think, because of this that I am not a Southern woman, for I am not. Let me tell you, when you leave here all our husbands, fathers and sons, with men and children will fight you."

The captain with an air of unconquerable gravity replied to her, "You will will you? that's your game is it, madam? Well, now, let me tell you that we have got a man in this army who can whip any woman in this country, your weight."

The lady who had hitherto been in a good humor now became excited, and cried out, "By gracious! I can whip him!"

Capt. Stubbs stepped to the car, and called for Major ——, a thick set man, weighing some 240 pounds. The Major, unconscious of what was going on came quickly to the platform and was introduced to the lady, with these words: "Of his weight"—recollect, I said of his weight.

The lady seeing the joke, had sense enough to join the crowd in a hearty laugh.

VERY LATE.—That valiant wit, Orpheus C. Kerr of the Mackerel Brigade, after describing a horse equestrian combat between William Brown of the United States of America, and Captain Munchausen of the Southern Confederacy, closes as follows:

"Hush!" says William, gazing severely at Company Regiment 5, as it came pouring forward, "has the Southern Confederacy concluded to submit to the United States of America?"

What the answer was, my boy, I am not allowed to say, but you may rest satisfied that a thing has been done which I am not permitted to divulge, and should this lead, as I hope it will, to a movement I am not suffered to make public, it cannot fail to result in a consummation which I am forbidden to make known. But if, on the other hand, the strategic movement which I am not at liberty to describe should be followed by a stroke I am restrained from exclaiming, you will find the effect it would not be judicious in me to set forth will produce a consequence which the War Department denies me the privilege of developing.

FRIDAY MORNING, SEPT 5, 1862

Glorious News!

As predicted by us in yesterday morning's issue, the news brought by telegraphic dispatches from Yreka last evening, has put a different and more encouraging phase upon the aspect of affairs, and we can again feel to rejoice at the success of our glorious cause We have the cheering intelligence that Burnside and Pope have succeeded in cutting their way through the rebel forces at Manassas and formed a junction with M Clellan's forces this side of Centreville A terrific battle was fought at Greytown, August 30th, which resulted in driving back the rebels across Bull Run, making them take to the Mountains The battle ground was upon the identical spot of Bull Run notoriety, which did much to encourage and stimulate our troops in gaining the victory We are now satisfied that the design of the rebel commander to make a sudden onslaught upon our forces and dash across our line of fortifications in order to gain a foothold in Maryland, has been successfully thwarted, and his chances for escape back down the Rappahannock towards Richmond is rendered hazardous If our forces can push on the retreating foe we believe that Jackson's chances are more desperate than rebel sympathisers supposed Pope's were on yesterday. We shall continue to look with much anxiety for additional news, and confidently trust that the flattering turn which things have taken will be followed up until the enemies of our Government shall be forced to yield obedience to the constitutional authorities of the nation.

We have never dispaired or doubted the final result of this contest, as we place implicit reliance upon the skill, patriotism and bravery of our forces and their commanders; and what is still more encouraging, and enables us to stand fire upon our faith, is the fact that we are engaged in a most holy cause, and right must and will prevail, as long as there is a God in heaven Who rules and directs the destinies of His creatures on earth

Wickedness, sin, treason and rebellion, may for a time sweep over the land, withering, blighting and cursing the fair face of nature, and destroying the peace, prosperity and happiness of mankind; but a day of reckoning, a day of judgment will surely follow, in which the foolish imps of desolation shall be checked in their work of destruction, and brought to feel the punishment of a just sentence pronounced by an indignant and injured nation. Such will inevitably be the fate of those who are now engaged in this unholy rebellion, and all those who sympathize with or favor their wicked designs will find themselves suddenly engulphed in the same overwhelming waves of condemnation. Take heed that ye stumble not nor faint by the way!

LETTER OF HORACE GREELY TO THE PRESIDENT, AND HIS REPLY.—A dispatch from Chicago dated August 28th, says Horace Greeley has written a letter to the President urging him to a more prompt enforcement of the confiscation law. The President has replied in a characteristic letter, in which he says

"My paramount object in this struggle is to SAVE THE UNION, and not to save or destroy slavery. If I could save the Union without freeing any slaves I would do it, and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves I would do it. If, by freeing some, and leaving other States alone, I would also do it What I do about slavery and the colored race, I do because I believe it helps this Union, and what I forbear, I forbear because I do believe it would not help to save the Union I shall do less whenever I shall believe what I am doing hurts the cause, and shall do more whenever I shall believe doing more will help the cause I shall try to correct errors when they are shown to be errors, and shall adopt new views so fast as they appear to be true views"

CROAKING.—The Advertiser of last evening presented rather a novel appearance, with a croaking leader over the news of day before yesterday, while in the very next column the news received last evening was published, completely knocking all his former predictions into a cocked hat, and changing the aspect of affairs entirely contrary to his fond hopes The editor "writ" that piece a little too quick and the printer forgot to take it out after the reception of the last dispatch Will our neighbor favor us with another prediction from his prophetic pen this evening? Perhaps the late news has frightened him again, and us suddenly put a stop to his croaking as the ceasing of a stone into a frog pond does those of his original prototypes "Shouldn't wonder! Shouldn't wonder!"

CONTRIBUTIONS OF THE NORTHWEST.—Illinois has contributed 69,319 troops; Indiana, 40,095; Michigan, 20,600; Missouri, 40,256, Wisconsin, 22,580, Iowa, 19,505, Minnesota, 5,231, Kansas, 8,100, Nebraska 1,240, Colorado, 1,300 Total, 237,534

GOOD FOR HIM.—Ex-Senator Green, of Missouri, a notorious rebel sympathizer, received a handsome beating in Washington, lately, at the hands of J. E Bouligny, formerly member of Congress from Louisiana Green talked secesh, and Bouligny being a Union man, caned him. He deserved it.

SECOND BATTLE OF BULL RUN

Great Union Victory.

Union Loss --8,000 killed & wounded

SACRAMENTO Aug 31

New York Aug 29 Dates from New Orleans to the 21st Have no advances to the Army of Tennessee Affairs with Banks remain in statu quo

A large Union meeting was held on the evening of the 26th in Bath yesterday The Times New Orleans says that the Bayou Sara has been destroyed by our gunboats Commodore Porter has gone up the river to Grand Gulf and on the banks of the river where guerrillas have fired upon passing boats, Burned the threatened towns with the black flag A consolidation of troops and Col Paine commanding at Baton Rouge is unpopular Up and Down Baton Rouge will be burned and probably all stroyed

Fortress Monroe, Aug 29th The Signal Corps which had been dispatched to McClellan's army left here yesterday for the Potomac

Memphis Aug 29th 100 guerrillas visited Holly Hill, (Ark) on the night of the 26th and literally sacked the place The rebel Congress has declared Kansas to be in the Confederacy Yancey introduced a bill legalizing the acts of the guerrillas and declaring that if they were taken by the Federals and treated otherwise than as personal war fell Davis must retaliate on Federal prisoners

New York Aug 29 —Reliable advices through letters received here last night state affairs near Manassas and Washington present a more favorable aspect Burnside and Pope successfully cut their way through the rebel force at Manassas, and formed a junction with McClellan's army this side of Centreville

Several engagements with rebels by divisions under Hooker Sturgis and Seammon, have occurred in which the rebels were completely routed and driven from the vicinity of Manassas and Bull Run, through the passes at Bull Run mountains

It is reported the loss on both sides is very heavy No accurate information however is attainable at this point but it is believed the enemy has been most severely punished and many taken prisoners

It is said the Potomac is fordable at any point above Washington, and much excitement prevails throughout Western Maryland fearing that a portion of the Confederate army may march under pretense of destructive raid in that quarter Arrangements for a proper reception of traitors at all points are complete for all emergencies

Later.

SACRAMENTO Aug 31, 12 M

The following is from the Union Extra

Washington Aug 30—The following is just received from the field of battle

Groveton, near Gainesville, Aug 30—To Gen Halleck. We fought a terrible battle here yesterday, with the combined forces of the enemy which lasted with continued fury from daylight till after dark by which time the enemy were driven from the field which we now occupy Our troops are too much exhausted to pursue matters further We shall do so in the morning as soon as Fitz John Porter crosses and comes up from Manassas

The enemy is still in front, but badly used up We have lost not less than 8,000 killed and wounded From appearance of the field the enemy have lost at least two to our one He stood strictly on the defensive, every assault was made by ourselves Our troops behaved splendidly The battle was fought on the identical field of Bull Run which greatly increased the ardor of our men News by post reached me from the front that the enemy are retreating towards the mountains—I go forward at once to see We have made great conquests but are unable to form an idea of their extent POPE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 30—Last evening's Washington Star has the following. We have information which satisfies us that the rebel forces that suddenly appeared in the rear of Pope's army, were Jackson's division and Stewart's Independent Cavalry Corps, 15,000 strong They marched from Waterloo, on the headwaters of the Rappahannock, around White Plains to Manassas, a distance of forty miles, in two days, without wagons, tents, blankets, or even knapsacks, thus leaving their baggage of all descriptions to be transported with the other army corps of Lee, which followed behind

Hooker's engagement on Thursday, was with Gen Lowell's division, and it was a gratifying success

Gen Pope at half past nine Thursday morning, had concentrated his army large as may seem to interfere with calculations on which the rebels must have counted Hence bold and extraordinary movement He had got McDowell's force including Sigel, probably between Jackson's rear and Longstreet's front, which had all the rest of the army within supporting distance

A correspondent of the Times says while Sigel and McDowell were harassing Jackson in front, Banks was in his rear A larger army than all, under McClellan, disputes his march.

WASHINGTON Aug 30 It is a fact that McClellan has been appointed Commander in Virginia Halleck is Commander in Chief —McClellan Pope, Burnside and others command their respective divisions

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 31—The Commercial arrived this morning, with mails and papers

Eastern News.

LOUISVILLE, Aug 28—Great numbers are leaving Kentucky to join the Confederates since the promulgation of an intention to draft for the Federal army

ST PAUL (MINN) Aug 28—Messengers from Fort Abercrombie report that the Indians in that vicinity are hostile and have murdered several people

Dispatches from Col Sibley received last night state that his forces did not leave St Peters for Fort Ridgely until Tuesday They probably arrived at the fort yesterday

ST LOUIS, Aug 28—Gen Sch field has issued an order directing a levy of half a million dollars on the secessionists and secession sympathizers of this county the money to be used in arming and equipping the enrolled militia, and for the support of the families of volunteers

Col Boyd, commanding at Greenville, Missouri, telegraphs that Major Zappert with 140 men, attacked 300 guerrillas, 40 miles beyond Bloomfield, routing them The rebel loss was 20 killed and 60 wounded and a number made prisoners Sixty horses, 70 stand of arms and all the camp equipage were taken The survivors scattered in every direction The Provost Marshal has commissioned about a dozen negroes belonging to the Secessionists

The official six counties confirm the report that Gen Blunt has driven the rebels across the Osage, with the loss of all their transportation equipments, besides numerous arms and prisoners It is considered that the expedition has saved the towns on the western borders, striking terrors into the hearts of the rebels as far as the Kansas line Blunt's column returned to Fort Scott on the 22d, having marched 300 miles in six days Col Cloud was left to continue the pursuit It is not unprobable that the main body of the rebels will be forced to surrender

DANVILLE (Ky) Aug 26—Two hundred guerrillas encamped six miles from here last night were attacked by the Danville Home Guards and completely routed They ran off their horses were wounded, and 30 horses captured

LOUISVILLE Aug 27 The rebels this side of Cumberland Gap are being reinforced, it is suspected to the number of 20,000 There were 3,000 rebels with Scott's rebel cavalry on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday last at Crab Orchard and Mount Vernon The rebels were completely defeated The losses were not as reported

Just Arrived! Mr. RUSSELL has this day received from San Francisco a new and well selected stock of Ladies' and Gents' Gold Hunting Watches, Silver Watches, Gold Chains, Jewelry, Silver Spoons and Forks, Pocket Knives, Razors, Scissors, Spectacles and Eye Glasses, Pocket Books, Portmonaies, Pocket Combs, Fancy Goods, Perfumery, Brushes, Soaps, Cologne, Toilet Articles, and a variety of other goods, all of which will be sold at the lowest cash prices

THE OREGONIAN may be had at the Franklin House, and at Charles Barrett's, Front street.

Probate Court—Thursday September 4—Thomas Tornetto was arraigned for disorderly conduct, fined $20 and paid and discharged.

Notice!—The attention of our Street Commissioner is again called to the rugged condition of the crossing of Washington street. Will somebody show this to the Street Commissioner, as we presume he did not request made a few days ago relative to this place? There is also another bad hole on the corner of Front and Taylor streets in need of repairing.

Steamer.—We heard heavy and quick firing of cannon in the direction of Vancouver yesterday. A heavy battle must have taken place, as the immense amount of powder burnt would indicate, as the noise was terrific.

Arrival.—The Julia arrived last evening from Cascades with some 65 passengers, but nothing of any consequence or later news than we have, as the Express failed to connect.

Sailed.—Bark Sam'l Merrill, Joseph [illegible] commander, was ten days to Cape Flattery, thence eight days to the Bar against strong North and North west winds, entire passage, and had three very severe gales from the North, with a tremendous sea running. The Captain says that the last one of the roughest trips he has ever had in or out of port. The following is a list of passengers:

For Portland—Shindler, 12, H W Corbett & Bros., 8, Geo. Abernethy, 125 [illegible] D. McCully, 79, A B Richardson, 6, L. Starkey, 6, [illegible] M M., 4, Capt [illegible] A. Q. THE STATESMAN has reliable correspondents in all the mining regions of Oregon, and Washington Territory—Powder River, Salmon River, Oro Fino, Colville, and the Bitter Root and Deer Lodge Valleys, and its facilities for obtaining news from these localities, both through its correspondents and the expresses running from Walla Walla to these points, are superior to those of any other paper published in Oregon or Washington Territory.

☞ The paper is the same size as the Weekly Oregonian, and its large circulation in all the mining regions above mentioned, renders it, to merchants and others, an excellent advertising medium. aug5 4mdw

The State Fair.

It is now but one month until the State Fair of Oregon will be held. It is high time that the farmer, the mechanic, and the artisan were making preparations for attendance upon this, the great jubilee of the State. It is time the farmers wives and daughters were also preparing samples of their butter, cheese, preserves, &c. &c. so that they can present an article which will take the premium—for no one wants to exhibit articles without taking it. And it is time that those neat articles of embroidery and fancy work were commenced. The ladies would hate to see an article inferior to that they could furnish carry off the premium because they failed to compete for it. Then let there be a general rally made by all, and we will not fail to enjoy a pleasant time and learn something to our advantage. We believe, from what we hear from different parts of the State, that at the coming Fair there will be a larger display and a better attendance than there was at the Fair held last year. This should be so. Every farmer in the State should make his calculations to go to the Fair and carry thither his family. It will be a grateful alleviation from the dull routine of every day labor. It will afford, even if you do not yourself prepare articles for competition, the means of gratification and instruction to both you and your family. And your children—bless their hearts—will never tire of talking about the nice horses and cows, and sheep they saw in the pens, and the nice handiwork which they saw in the building, and the splendid fresh butter and cheese, &c., that was exhibited, and will wonder so frequently why it is that they do not have such nice things at home, that you will soon resolve to fully compete with the premium articles which you saw, if for no other reason than to please the little folks you love so well. COME ONE, COME ALL, AND BRING YOUR WIVES AND CHILDREN TO THE STATE FAIR. Let us resolve to make this the grand holiday of the State.

And why should we not? Agriculture is our main resource, and just in proportion that it is developed and improved, just in that proportion will the State advance in the road of wealth and prosperity. And what is there that can conduce to further the interests of Agriculture so much as these annual gatherings of the people, who bring with them the trophies they have won with their own hands? For this reason it is eminently fitting that our State Fair should be the great gala day of the year. As the ancient Greeks assembled stately to witness their Olympic games, so let us assemble to witness the achievements that can can be made in our agricultural interest, and as those assemblages served to stimulate those Grecian youth to athletic exercises so that he might gain the crown offered, so will the State Fairs serve to stimulate the farmers to renewed labors in what Washington termed the noblest avocation of man—Agriculture. Then let there be a general rally. Let every one make preparations to attend! No great expense need be incurred, and the benefit and pleasure you will receive will repay you a thousand fold.

Our Apple Crop.

From different sources we gather the conclusion that the apple crop of this year will be very materially larger than that of last year. It will therefore be no disappointment, we presume, to any of our fruit growers, if there is a slight decrease in the price of fruit. This must be expected. It is the legitimate result of an increased supply, especially when that increase is proportionally so much greater than that of the population to be supplied. But conceding that the price of fruit does recede, it cannot and will not decrease to such an extent but that the best varieties of fall and especially winter fruit will realize to the grower a fair remuneration for their shipment. But with this increased quantity of fruit, there will be a large amount of the poorer varieties which we believe can be made to yield better returns than by their shipment. During the last season hundreds and hundreds of barrels of eastern dried apples have been shipped here from California and eastward into our mining districts. There was a steady, constant demand to be supplied, and of the vast quantity shipped only a small proportion was furnished by our own State. And we are certain, from the low price paid for some of the poorer varieties of apples in the interior, that the grower would have realized much better profit if he had dried his fruit and sent it to market in that condition.

Again, we import vinegar into this State, and some of it of a most "villainous" nature. And this article sells at such a figure as would richly remunerate the farmer in turning his apples into this article. Then too we import "champagne"—the real article warranted to be pure 'Jersey cider"—which sells at high figures, and when it is made of cider is a first rate beverage. Why can't Oregon, with her forests of apple orchards, compete with the Jerseys? Cider, well made and well attended to, is a healthful drink; and if our farmers only turn their attention to its manufacture, they will find outside of the State an ample market. But in order to form a market for it it must be a superior article. And as it requires but little more care to make good cider instead of poor, we hope that that care will be given, and that "pure Oregon cider" may soon displace the "villainous compounds that under the name of "champagne" are poured down innocent, unsuspecting throats. We trust our farmers will endeavor to supply the demand for dried fruit, vinegar, and "champagne" so far as possible.
